

Add to section 13.1 the text in blue

Semaphores and mailboxes are built-in types, nonetheless, they are classes, and can be used as base classes for deriving additional higher level classes. Built-in classes reside in the built-in namespace (see Section 7.10.1), thus, they may be re-defined by user code in any other scope.